The Caller

Summer Hope

*"Hope" is the thing with feathers—
That perches in the soul,
And sings the tune without the words,
And never stops—at all—*
✎ Emily Dickinson

For the creation waits with eager longing. Romans 8:19

Summer is such a great season for hope. The downpour of Washington's winter settles into a drizzle, and maybe even fades to a patter on our roofs. We come out of the cocoon of our homes to smell the trees warmed with summer heat. We touch nature, either to choke off the weeds, beat back the lush growth, or to coax annuals or summer vegetables up from our gardens. Life is in bloom all around us, and we are the beneficiaries of nature's grace.

Life is in bloom for our members this summer too. We honor four of our High School graduates, and joyfully anticipate the next season of their lives. We walk with our Intern Jake and his wife Mandy through their first pregnancy, and all the wonder and trepidation that accompanies new life. Our High School kids experience the thrill of gathering with other Christian youth in our very own North Cascade Lutheran retreat center at Holden Village, where they commune with each other and the wilderness. Our younger kids say goodbye to former Elementary grades, and a few even move into their Middle School years, ready to take on leadership in Vacation Bible School. We barbecue, and play together, sit on one another's decks, and plan for the next new things in the life of our church.

Summer feels hope-filled and promising—as if God has opened the doors and windows of the church to let the air in, and hope's fragrance is on the breeze. I think the apostle Paul recognizes this hope that believers share when he says, "The creation waits with eager longing." Our faith in Jesus orients us to a day that hasn't come, but which we can hope for, long for—maybe even smell.

Emily Dickinson said it differently: "'Hope' is the thing with feathers." I like this vision of hope: light, able to take flight, maybe even whimsical. This sense of hope can lift us above the individual burdens of daily life but, more than that, can give us loft when we have lost the courage to soar as a church.

So what would it look like for Calvary to have "hope with feathers"? I think it means, first, that we will be creative about our mission in ways that we haven't been before. It is easy for us to do ministry "the way we've always done it." It's more challenging to reinvent ministry in such a way that we are nimble, constantly looking for ways to travel lightly out into the community, to be more invested in the people we want to reach than the ministry through which we reach them.

Hope is indeed the thing with feathers. May the Holy Spirit, whose arrival at Pentecost we celebrate this June, carry us to new places and give us a new language to speak this hope we share in Christ.

Your sister in Christ,
Pastor Lori

Reformation Beer Debut at Synod Assembly

by Satya Jaech

As you read this, 220 gallons of beer are busy fermenting at Wingman Brewers in Tacoma. The beer is a project of PLU as part of its 500th Anniversary celebration of the Reformation,

Bags of barley malt from Bamberg, Germany and will make its debut at the 2017 SSWA Synod Assembly Beer & Hymns on Friday, June 16 at 7pm in the Chris Knutzen Hall at PLU. All Synod Assembly members and congregation members are invited to sing hymns with us and try this beer. Synod Assembly registrants will get one complimentary ticket for a beverage, if they wear their assembly name tag..

It's widely known that Luther's wife, Katharina von Bora, brewed beer for the Luther household. We wondered what would happen if we researched the kind of beer Katie Luther was likely to brew, and then attempt to recreate it for the 500th Anniversary. The result is Reformation, a German style Alt Beer.

Wingman co-owner Kenneth Thoburn (PLU grad 2009) and a committee from PLU, including Satya Jaech and Rev. John Rosenberg, came together to research and develop a historically accurate Reformation beer. The committee gathered and sampled several beers from Germany made from old recipes. Thoburn

Wingman co-owner Ken Thoburn stirs the vat of Reformation Beer

The label for PLU's Reformation Beer

researched the kinds of grain Katy Luther likely used, as well as the water of this region of Germany, both variables that influence the flavor of the beer. The grains and yeast are imported from Germany and are indigenous to the regions of Saxony and Thuringia, the seat of the Lutheran Reformation and Katie Luther's home.

After its debut at the Synod Assembly Beer & Hymns, Reformation will be bottled and for sale at 208 Garfield restaurant in Parkland. We don't yet know exactly what it will taste like, but Thoburn predicts "it should be crisp and malty."
